Perth, Australia and San Francisco and Los Angeles, USA, September 10th, 2007. The Australian digital music label, Hidden Shoal Recordings, today launched a partnership which will see a range of digital releases from its catalogue available on CD in the US.

Through an ongoing and exclusive partnership with Aquarius Records in San Francisco and Amoeba Music in Los Angeles, Hidden Shoal Recordings today announced the re-release of several of its most popular digital releases on CD for the first time. The announcement follows the success of these releases through digital distribution, as well as enthusiastic worldwide support from radio, press, and of course fans.

The following Hidden Shoal albums and EPs have now been re-released on CD in the US:

Wes Willenbring – Somewhere Someone Else
 “raises the bar and offers something new to the ambient world. A tremendous affair of restrained, multi-layered and hypnotic soundscapes” – Angry Ape

Sankt Otten – Wir koennen ja Freunde bleiben
 “A grandiose statement that touches the cornerstones of noir film soundtrack, atmospheric rock, jazz and trip-hop” – Boring Machines
 Disturbs Sleep
Available now from Aquarius Records, San Francisco & Amoeba Music, Los Angeles

The Hero Cycle – Lakes and Ponds

“this gang of seven doesn’t just hint at obvious influences like Built to Spill and Broken Social Scene, but beats what makes those bands great to a pulp and mashes it together into a sound that’s just as nostalgic as it is punchy and innovative” – Avoid Peril

Available now from Amoeba Music, Los Angeles

All HSR releases at Aquarius Records, San Francisco will also be available via the store’s mail order service.

Hidden Shoal Recordings will announce further re-releases over the coming months, including Bury the Sound’s Autumn Magnets EP and Glassacre’s Slow Attack EP.
